

ABSTRACT

A method is provided for manufacturing a semiconductor device on a semiconductor substrate using a dielectric as a bottom anti-reflective coating for formation of a photoresist contact opening which is used to enlarge the Final Inspection Critical Dimension (FICD) of the conductive contact. A high selectivity etch is used to form a tapered contact.

5